

WITH HATRED IN THEIR EYES

Dramatic Story of Shooting
Stirs Up Audience
at Czolgosz Trial.

HE HAD CONFESSED

Followed President to Niagara,
But Could Not Get
Near Enough to Shoot.

DETAILS OF TRIAL

Buffalo, Sept. 24.—The jury late this afternoon found Czolgosz guilty of murder in the first degree.

Buffalo, Sept. 24.—The second day of the trial of Czolgosz found the assassin brighter than at any time since he was arrested. He was brought into court a few minutes before ten o'clock and as the shackles were removed he sat in his usual place and seemed to take an interest in the proceedings.

Just before the court was called to order one of Czolgosz's attorneys held a short whispered consultation with the prisoner. What was said was inaudible, but it was significant that it was the first time the counsel had descended to talk to Czolgosz since he came into the case. Czolgosz will not be put on the stand unless he asks his counsel to do so. The prosecution believes that he wants to make a statement in court and that he has an alibi prepared.

Czolgosz was restless last night and appeared to be visited by troublesome dreams.

Drops of Cold Perspiration
Drops of cold perspiration stood out on his forehead today and he surreptitiously mopped them away with a soiled handkerchief crumpled in his right palm. He seemed unwilling his agitation should be noticed but casual observers noted it despite his superb self control.

Calm and Watchful
If he experienced any emotions he concealed them. Calmly and yet watchfully he noticed the cold and stately precision of the procedure which is to lead him inevitably to the most ignominious of all deaths, and yet he gave no sign. A boy in years and stature, frail, intelligent and yet saturated with the diabolical fatalism of anarchy, he listened without a murmur of palliation or defense to the hateful story of his own monstrous cruelty.

Shows No Remorse
As he walked in and out of the crowded courtroom through aisles of men whose every glance bespoke their hatred for him and his monstrous crime, he did not quail. His hand never trembled, his lips did not quiver. Even during the descriptions of surgical operations recited by surgeons who recoiled at the very memory of the wounds which he had made so wantonly, Czolgosz showed not a tremor of remorse or pity or feeling for his victim.

Is Neatly Dressed
His face smoothly shaven, his tawny hair well combed and neatly parted, his well shaped head upheld and intelligently poised; there was nothing sinister or abhorrent in his appearance. He wore a well fitting gray sack coat and vest, dark trousers of good material, spotless linen and a small blue bow necktie. He neither strutted nor cowered. He could not remove his hat, a light Fedora, as he entered the presence of the court, but he did not start nor frown as a guard snatched it from his head.

The first witness was civil engineer, Fields. He identified by a diagram the chair in which the president sank and the spot where the people fled to approach the president to shake his hands.

Described the Shooting
The most important witness of the morning was James Quackenbush, who was with McKinley at the time of the assassination. He graphically described the shooting and the struggle with the assassin. While testifying a murmur went through the court room and glances of hatred were cast in the direction of the prisoner. Later Quackenbush's testimony provided a genuine sensation. For the first time it was learned that the prisoner had made a complete statement on the night of the shooting while a mob was on the outside of the jail howling for his life. Quackenbush said that the prisoner talked freely of his crime and that he fully realized what he was doing and was willing to suffer the consequences and said that he had followed the president to Niagara Falls, intending to kill him there, but could not get near enough to him.

More Angry Murmurs
Quackenbush said Czolgosz declared that if he had not been stopped he would have continued shooting at the president. At this point there were again angry murmurs in the audience.

Tells of a Plot
St. Louis, Sept. 24.—Ed. Saffels is under arrest here charged with theft told the police he was with Czolgosz in Buffalo when McKinley was shot and declared that a plot existed to murder the president and other prominent men. He said the headquarters of the assassins' band was in Patterson, N. J., and that Emma Goldman assisted in hatching the plot in a St. Louis saloon.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT UNIVERSITY

President Adams Looks for More Students Than Last Year When There Were 2,600.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 24.—Many of the boarding houses have advanced the price of board 50 cents a week, but this is not expected to affect the attendance at the university. The attendance last year was 2,600. "We expect," said President Adams, "that during the coming year that it will be considerably more."

Registrar Heistand opened his office this morning to the students, and all day long the hall has been the scene of much activity. The registrar and his assistants have been kept busy issuing credentials to students and instructing them as to their class officials. The work of registration will continue on Tuesday and Wednesday, the first work with the classes being taken up on Thursday.

GIVE UP BUSINESS FOR MATRIMONY

Increase in Weddings Shows a Tendency by Chicago Women to Desert Offices and Shops.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The fact that the number of marriages in Chicago has increased greatly in the last two years and that there has been a corresponding decrease in the number of young women seeking employment as stenographers and clerks, it is believed, indicates a growing tendency on the part of young women to give up business life for matrimony. Club women who have been discussing the subject for some time and who generally advocate home life for women draw that conclusion. Prosperity in the business world is thought to have its influence in enabling young men to marry.

There are fewer weddings in the winter and consequently the six months from March 1 to Sept. 1, as no later figures are available this year are taken as a basis of comparison. Last year in these six months there were 8,334 weddings, while this year there have been 9,046. This makes an increase of 712 weddings.

Mrs. Mary E. Holmes of the Chicago Woman's Club, who has always been a strong advocate of home life for women, said: "If these statistics are true I should say it might mean that men are finding out how desirable a person the wage-earning woman is. Every woman, I believe, has a desire for a home. They are wage earners from necessity. But a woman who has been a wage earner usually admires, and if these women are marrying it is because the men have found out how capable and practical they are."

SUDDEN DEATH OF JERE WILSON

Leading Consul for Schley Expires from Acute Indigestion Today.

ADJOURNS INQUIRY

The Outline of Points Schley's Attorneys Expect to Prove with Written Evidence.

POSITION OF COLON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—A sensational postponement of the Schley court of inquiry was caused this morning by the sudden death of Jere Wilson, one of the counsels for Schley. Wilson expired at eleven this morning after an acute attack of indigestion.

Wilson became ill last night. He was one of the most brilliant lawyers in the United States. He became famous through his connection with the celebrated Breckenridge-Pollard case.

OUTLINE OF SCHLEY CASE

Points Which His Attorneys Expect to Prove by Evidence

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—The day's session of the Schley court of inquiry was by far the most interesting of any since the taking of testimony was begun. Frequent mention was made of Admiral Sampson, and as a result counsel on both sides engaged in more than one lively controversy. Counsel for Schley practically outlined some of the things they expected to prove to justify the course of their client. One thing that they said they wanted to prove was that Sampson was not in the battle at Santiago, and that the responsibility of fighting it was thrust upon Schley. According to their representations to the court they intend also to show that if Sampson's blockade was good, then so was Schley's, for the reason that they were of the same character and general arrangement, and more important than that they promised to bring out that if Schley was censurable for failing to destroy the Colon Sampson was equally guilty, because for four hours after the arrival of Sampson at Santiago the Colon lay in the same position at the mouth of the harbor that she was in during the three days that Schley saw her, and Sampson made no effort to attack her. Admiral Schley's counsel said that they proposed to show, also, that what Schley did was done under Sampson's orders, that Schley's withdrawal from the reconnaissance, as it was termed by him, against the Colon and to develop the shore batteries, was performed under general naval regulations, and was the same policy that had been pursued by Sampson, and that if the Brooklyn was not in a proper position when Cervera's squadron ran out on July 3 she was at the station assigned to her by Sampson. The part played by the battleship Texas in the naval battle off Santiago was the basis of a great part of the day's proceedings.

PLAN RECIPROCITY FOR THE CUBANS

General Wood Has Treaty Drafted and Expects to Return Soon with Ratifying Delegation.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—Gen. Wood, who left last night for Cuba, expects to return to Washington in November and to bring with him a deputation from the Cuban constitutional convention authorized to negotiate a reciprocity agreement. Secretary Root some time ago directed that preliminary arrangements be made for formulating such an agreement and this has been done. About 100 articles produced in the United States, the most important of which are cereals and machinery, will enter Cuba at reduced rates if the agreement be perfected. Sugar and tobacco will be the principal items of Cuban production to be considered in the reciprocity agreement.

LAID TO REST AT MOUNT OLIVET

Funeral Services Over the Remains of Rev. Father George Strickner in St. Mary's Church Today.

All that was mortal of the late Rev. Father George Strickner was laid to rest in Mount Olivet cemetery this morning after his memory had been paid the highest honors of the church which he ad served so faithfully for many years. The remains were brought to this city from Monroe last evening and lay in state all night in St. Mary's church. The church was lighted and members of the Guard of Honor and of the congregation kept watch saying the prayers and the litany of the dead.

This morning the last rites of the church were observed at St. Mary's, the auditorium being filled with a mourning people. Solemn high mass was celebrated, Rev. Father R. Nichols of Monroe, being the celebrant. Father Thomas Dempsey of Monroe as deacon, Father Snyder of Fort Atkinson as sub-deacon and Father M. Weyer of Mineral Point, as master of ceremonies. Father Ward of Beloit gave the last absolution. A choir of priests, led by Prof. W. F. Thiele, sang the Gregorian requiem beautifully.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Father W. A. Goebel, who was an intimate personal friend of the deceased priest and it was an eloquent eulogy on Father Strickner's life. The speaker referred touchingly to the fact that Father Strickner had been a devout priest in Southern Wisconsin for the past forty-two years. His term of service began back in the pioneer times when his ministrations of mercy among the scattered families were made possible by the assistance of the Indians and the use of Indian trails. At one time he was a professor in the seminary at Waukegan. He was a great student and a fine scholar. Shortly before his death, the bulk of his manuscripts, sermons and poetry was destroyed but those that remain indicate that he was a gentleman of great literary ability. His sermons were of high order and he seldom preached unless he was thoroughly prepared. The speaker said that Father Strickner was an honor and a credit to the priesthood of Southern Wisconsin.

Continuing Father Goebel thanked the members of the Guard of Honor for watching through the night by the dead priest. He called attention to the fact that on the priest's knees in early pioneer life he had kept watch during many nights, traveling on foot or horseback through Indian trails to minister to the sick and dying, scattered far apart in the wilds of Wisconsin, enduring hardships, crossing snow-drifts and smarting with the sting of bitter cold to reach the sick and administer the consolation of the church. The young men did well to watch during the night with the old priest. He was an honor to the priesthood and he has gone to his reward and eternal rest.

The funeral procession which moved slowly to Mount Olivet was a long one. The pall bearers were chosen from among the priests and Father Dieringer, of Jefferson conducted the service at the grave. About fifteen priests from different parts of the state attended the funeral.

SHAFFER DESERTED BY HIS FRIENDS

President of the Amalgamated Says Gompers Neglected the Work Intrusted to Him.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 24.—President Shaffer's statement to the Amalgamated association on the recent strike discloses the real terms on which the great struggle was settled. Its most startling feature, however, is Mr. Shaffer's attack on President Gompers of the Federation of Labor and President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers. Gompers is declared to have betrayed the strikers. It is declared also that his organization did not contribute one cent to aid the Amalgamated men.

"We were in fairly good condition to win without help, but looked for aid from other labor bodies, but especially relied on the American Federation of Labor. The federation gave us not one cent. The report that financial help came from the national lodge of the mine workers is absolutely false—we received nothing. "Perceiving that lack of money, loss of public approval, desertion by hundreds of our own people, and neglect by other organizations would render it impossible to gain a decisive victory, we decided to save what we could. I arranged for Mr. Gompers to meet Mr. Morgan and effect a settlement. Mr. Morgan gave up his vacation, went to New York and waited for Mr. Gompers, who failed to appear; nor has he since explained why he neglected our interests."

Then Mr. Shaffer recounts how John Mitchell and a committee called on him and Mitchell offered to call out the miners if the demands of the strikers were not granted. The demands were rejected. Mr. Shaffer closes by saying he is willing to resign if the members think he is inefficient and incapable.

Milwaukee, Wis., September 24.—The Bay View strikers last evening voted to return to work. A committee of the men called upon the officers of the company and asked to be taken back in a body. They were informed that the company would take back as many men as it needed and it voted to go back to work.

NEW PLANS FOR LIBRARY FOR ONE-STORY BUILDING

BOARD UNDECIDED ON THE QUESTION

A One-Story or Two-Story Building is the Point Upon Which They Disagree—Advantage of the Skavlem Plan Fully Detailed.

A meeting of the public library board was held last evening and routine library work was transacted after which the board went into a committee of the whole to discuss the proposed new building. Architect Jennings, who is engaged in remodeling his original plans so as to bring them within the appropriation, was not ready to report and H. L. Skavlem presented a set of plans, which he had drawn as a rough and suggestive sketch of his ideas.

Mr. Skavlem, with some of the other members of the board held that inasmuch as Mr. Jennings' plans so far exceeded the appropriation, there are now no plans before the library board. Any plans, whether drawn by Mr. Jennings or any other architect, must be accepted by the board and bids advertised for.

To Make Haste Slowly
The discussion last night was informal and no decision was reached, the board being determined to make haste slowly. Some of the members favored Mr. Skavlem's plans and others thought that it would be better to remodel Mr. Jennings' plans so that the interior arrangement would include Mr. Skavlem's ideas on utility. It was suggested that Mr. Jennings' plans, with these desirable changes in the interior arrangement might be adopted and only the basement and the first floor finished off at present. It is expected that Mr. Jennings will meet with the board in the near future.

The plans which were submitted by Mr. Skavlem are the result of much thought based on ten years of study of and experience in library work. He has always been greatly interested in the public library and has read extensively all articles which he could secure on the subject. It is his opinion that in planning the erection of the new library building, the three most important questions to be considered are:

Three Main Questions
First and of more importance than any and all other questions combined is that of utility to the public—to make it a public library in fact as well as in name.

Second and next of importance to the public is economy of administration. This means the arrangement of the library so as to give the public the greatest possible service with the least possible expense. The third requirement is a building as artistic and ornamental in exterior appearance as possible without sacrificing the utility of the building for the purposes for which it was designed.

These are the three main questions which Mr. Skavlem thinks should be thoroughly, calmly and honestly studied, considered and discussed. There is no possible public question, no possible public improvement, that more directly affects each and every citizen than this question of public library utility. If it can be made a public library in fact as well as in name, it will affect every man, woman and child in the city. If the service can be doubled, it will be equal to two libraries, if it can be trebled, to building three and the expense of administration will not be increased.

For a Public Library
To Mr. Skavlem, as to the majority of people, shelves open to the public appears to be the only practical way of making the library a public library—that is so much so that each individual can make it as available and even more so because the books are classified, than if he had these books in his own home, if the time taken to travel from the home to the library be excepted.

With these thoughts in mind Mr. Skavlem has drawn a suggestive set of floor plans. As is well-known the site for the building slopes back from Main Street so that the grade is much lower on Park street than in front. Mr. Skavlem's idea is to locate the building as far back as possible from Main street and have a large lawn in front of the building.

Then he would have the first floor of the building a foot or two higher than the grade of Park street and raise the grade of the lot on Main street by filling in so that it would be six or eight feet higher at the front of the building than at the rear.

come above the ground making the first floor fourteen or fifteen feet high. Mr. Skavlem considers that Architect Jennings' plan is practically a three-story building, inasmuch as the basement cannot be built below ground on account of the nearness to the river.

In the drawing of the floor plans the idea has been to place the librarian so that he could have entire supervision of the library building and to allow the greatest possible space for the accommodation of the books. The upper floor would be the library floor proper and the entrance to it would be on Main street in the center of the building. The entrance would be similar to that in the high school building with short stairways leading up to the library floor.

Plans Call for 112x64.
These newly suggested plans call for a building 112x64 whereas Mr. Jennings' plans were for a building 60x100. Mr. Skavlem thinks that one of the strongest arguments in favor of his plan is that they allow more floor space for library purposes proper and take care of many times more books than did Mr. Jennings' plans.

On the library floor of the new plans provision is made for a hall 15x16. An entrance on the right leads from the hall to the children's museum, a room 24x48. Back of this is the children's room, 24x36, with the librarian's desk and work room, 16x16, between. This desk has been placed on the north side of the building, instead of on the south side of the children's department, as in the original plans, in order that the librarian may have constant supervision of both rooms and of the toilet room, which is placed opposite his desk. His work room is divided from the children's room by a railing.

The General Library Room

An entrance at the west of the hall leads to the general library. First there is a lobby, 16x30, with racks for coats and hats on the wall, this provision for outer wraps being also made in the children's museum.

The librarian's desk is in the exact center of the general library on the left side of the lobby. The desk faces westward and gives the librarian a supervision of the book shelves, the reference room and the reading room. These are in reality, one big room, partitioned by railings. The lobby opens into the open library, 36x40, where all books which are taken from the building are kept. It occupies the center of the building on Park street. The reference room 24x36 occupies the rear, southwest corner of the building and the reading room, 26x40, is directly in front of it. The librarian's general utility room extends from his desk to the front of the building and is a room 22x32. Entrance to it can be gained from the hall. It is divided from the other rooms by a railing.

Roomy Shelves for Books

One of the best results of Mr. Skavlem's study is the provision which he has made for the accommodation of books, the great value of it is that there is practically no limit to its extension. The plan provides for six or seven shelves below the windows on the solid walls in both the open library and in the children's room. In addition to this, low double stacks, similar to the one in which new books are placed on exhibition in the present library, can be extended the length of the room.

These stacks would be only three feet high and would be placed at least six feet from the floor and would

R. Kusche of 168 Linn street brought a Milwaukee Sentinel to The Gazette office today of the date of August 30, 1900. It contains an interview with Dr. Charles McLean, better known as "Schlatter," the divine healer. He said: "Two years ago I said that Theodore Roosevelt was to become president before the next election. I still affirm that." "Is McKinley to be assassinated?" asked the reporter. "Schlatter" replied: "One prominent statesman in this country will be killed by the anarchists as was Humbert. Roosevelt will be president. You must draw your own inferences."

ROOSEVELT IN WHITE HOUSE

New President Takes Possession of Executive Mansion.

HIS FAMILY STILL AWAY.

Colonel Roosevelt is Deeply Affected At the Evening Dinner Hour on Account of the Memories of McKinley the Surroundings Awaken.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—Theodore Roosevelt has taken possession of the White House, ate his meals and slept in the room usually reserved for the President of the United States. The flag on the White House, which is only displayed when the President is at home there, was at half-mast, thus being a double signal of the passing of one President and the coming of another. The official world in Washington does not really accept a President as such until he actually comes into the White House, and it has been extremely informal, and the time was realized the great change which has taken place, because President Roosevelt has been living a half-mile from the White House, and has been going backward and forward for all the world like a cabinet officer or a high-grade department clerk. Now, however, the President having moved his personal belongings into the White House, the ordinary routine is re-established. He broke off work at the noon hour and took lunch with his two brothers-in-law, Commander Cowles and Douglas Robinson, and Private Secretary Loeb. This first official meal in the White House was extremely informal, and the time was largely taken up with the discussion of official matters. In the evening President Roosevelt dined with Commander and Mrs. Cowles, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, and Secretary Cortelyou. This dinner was decidedly a family affair, and except for the complete changes in the personages was such a dinner as the President and Mrs. McKinley had been having day after day for years. It was a trying night for President Roosevelt, because he spent it alone in the White House, save for the attendants, and his taking possession of the Executive Mansion could not fail to awaken memories which were extremely painful to all the attaches. Colonel Roosevelt himself was deeply affected at dinner time. Mrs. Roosevelt and some of the children are expected Wednesday, and by that time matters will be adjusted in the White House to such an extent that the uncanny feeling which has been so generally remarked, will have disappeared.

Miss Roosevelt Gets $100,000.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 25.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, the President's eldest daughter, is handsomely remembered with three Boston people in the will of Nathaniel Hawthorne Cusack of Washington. The principal beneficiary is Miss Mary Cusack of this city, who is given $100,000. Miss Roosevelt is remembered with $100,000. She was a great favorite of Mr. Cusack, who had known her father since his boyhood days.

Consider McKinley Stamp.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—A special issue of stamps commemorative of the life of the late President McKinley is under contemplation at the Post-office department. Consideration of the subject, however, has not progressed sufficiently to indicate definitely what action may be taken.

Fatal Error By Engineer.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 24.—In a head-on collision on the Grand Rapids & Indiana railroad, eight miles north of Cadillac, between a regular freight train and an extra passenger train carrying excursionists from Petoskey to Cadillac, one man was killed and five injured. The dead are: Engineer Fred Zimmerman of Cadillac. The injured: Conductor Fred Volkert, Grand Rapids; Brakeman Hiram Witkop of Cadillac; Engineer B. J. Dart, Grand Rapids; News Agent W. A. Sneevly, Grand Rapids; Albert Coon, Cadillac. The wreck was caused by Engineer Zimmerman of the freight train, forgetting an order which was given him verbally, to sidetrack his train several miles south of the scene of the accident and await the passage of the passenger train. Zimmerman, who lived several hours, said just before he died: "It was all my fault; I forgot." Both engines were reduced to scrap iron.

Cuba May Be Free May 1.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Gen. Leonard Wood, military governor of Cuba, left here by way of Tampa for Havana. Alexander Gonzales accompanied him. The expectation of Gen. Wood is that he will be able to complete arrangements by which the conduct of affairs in the island can be handed over to the Cubans by the first of next May. The electoral law which the governor brought with him for the inspection of the authorities here is satisfactory to the administration, provided some modifications are made. Dies Seeking to Save Son.

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 24.—While spending the day at home Fred Lindlof went to examine an abandoned coal shaft on his father's farm. When he failed to return for supper, his father, John Lindlof, went in search of him, and he, too, failed to come back. Other members of the family summoned neighbors and a search for them was made. Both were found dead at the bottom of a thirty-foot shaft, where they had been overcome by foul air.

THE MISSION OF THE PRESS.
So much is being said just now about the press of the country, and so many people are impressed with the notion that the press has a well defined mission that inspires activity along various lines of thought and work, that judgment being formed, and sentiments expressed, are apt to be erroneous and misleading.
Has the press of the country a mission, and if so, what authority directs it? Not the religious press, which is usually controlled and supported by the church, nor individual papers like the "Voice," the organ of prohibition; the "Commoner," the organ of free silver and other heresies; or the new Milwaukee organ, which has no excuse for existence except as the exponent of populist reform.
This class of papers, as well as trade and professional journals, may be said to have a mission, but they are organs or mediums, established and maintained for special purposes, and do not belong to, and are never classed with the great secular press of the country.
Has this secular press, that wields so much influence for both good and evil, a mission?
Did you ever know of a man, or a company of men to start a newspaper, not an organ, in any community, who made the slightest pretense of a claim to a mission? Did you ever know a man to buy a newspaper, and say any claim to a mission, unless he wanted it for a personal organ? If so, you possess knowledge that the average citizen does not enjoy.
The publishing of a newspaper is a business enterprise, and deprived of all sentiment and nonsense, its mission is to succeed and make money. Drop out this incentive and you bury the enterprise. The men engaged in the business are usually intelligent, and of the 20,000 publishers of this class in the United States today, a less number of financial failures are reported annually than in any other line of business similarly represented. Ask any one of these publishers if he has a mission, and if he is honest he will refer you to the cashier for an answer.
The business, not the mission, of a publisher, is to publish all the news and to fill the columns of the paper with a variety of both news, miscellany and editorial expression, that will satisfy the largest number of a complex constituency. If he is ordinarily shrewd, he studies the field, just as a merchant studies the wants of his customers, and the measure of success attained, depends on his ability to supply popular demand.
If his field of operation is a college town with aesthetic culture and demands profound treatise, he adapts himself to conditions, is conservative of expression, and avoids sensation, and wins.
If he is in the wild and woolly west where the town is painted red once a week, he contributes to the celebration a paper that corresponds.
If he tries a new venture at one of the large centers of population, he attempts to fill an unsupplied want, and if this vacancy is copper colored, the yellow journal, supported by a constituency of brighter hue, gains a foothold and forges to the front.
The secular press is an educator, not only because it is a record of current events, and a dispenser of news served up to meet popular demand, but because it handles a great variety of topics, both scientific and moral, and discusses with more or less efficiency the problems of the day in which the average reader is interested.
The press of the country, with rare exception, possesses good moral tone, and this speaks well for public sentiment, because the constituency behind the press is largely responsible for the character of its utterances.
It is a popular notion that the secular press moulds public sentiment. Occasionally an egotistical publisher is tinctured with this idea, and attempts to influence popular sentiment against public will. The sentiment is never disturbed, but the publisher has a rough experience.
It is possible for the secular press to crystallize public sentiment on many questions where the sentiment is scattered, and where through ignorance or indifference there is a lack of well defined purpose. This is frequently done, not only in the field of politics, but on questions of expediency and public welfare, but this class of work can hardly be dignified with the title of mission. The secular press of the country is what the people make it. And the same old question of personal responsibility enters largely into it.

THE MISSION OF THE PRESS.

So much is being said just now about the press of the country, and so many people are impressed with the notion that the press has a well defined mission that inspires activity along various lines of thought and work, that judgment being formed, and sentiments expressed, are apt to be erroneous and misleading.

Has the press of the country a mission, and if so, what authority directs it? Not the religious press, which is usually controlled and supported by the church, nor individual papers like the "Voice," the organ of prohibition; the "Commoner," the organ of free silver and other heresies; or the new Milwaukee organ, which has no excuse for existence except as the exponent of populist reform.

CANADA AND AMERICA.

In reaching out for foreign trade and crossing seas to find it, the fact is too frequently overlooked, that just across the border, separated only by an imaginary line, and easy of access, is a customer that is not only willing to patronize us, but that is already a liberal buyer.

Hon. John W. Ellis, a member of the Canadian senate, was in Milwaukee the other day, and speaking of trade relations and conditions said: "For my own part, I have often felt that your public men are not fully alive to the opportunities which Canada affords them as a customer. Every improvement we make, all our new achievements, the richer we grow, so much the better for the United States, as we buy from you according to our ability. Our trade returns for the fiscal year, which ended June 30, 1901, ought to interest many of your people. Our total foreign trade on the basis of imports for consumption and exports was $377,728,620, the imports being $181,237,988 and the exports, $196,487,632 and of this total trade very nearly one-half was with the United States, the total with your country being $180,891,849. We bought from you $110,486,008 worth of goods and we sold you $70,406,841, chiefly of our own produce. This is a large trade. It is a larger trade than we do with our mother country for our total trade with her amounted to only $148,434,253. We bought from her only $43,164,297 in the year for consumption; we sold her $92,867,525 of our own produce and $12,471,431 of foreign produce, mostly the produce of the United States.

"Our total trade with your country increased in 1901 over 1900 to the extent of about nine millions of dollars. It did not increase with Great Britain. It fell off about four millions. If our tariff arrangements with you were more satisfactory we could both buy from and sell more to you, to the advantage of both countries. As trade increases between the Dominion and the Republic the general interest of each country in the other will increase and we will know more of each other to the advantage of both. We have many things to sell to you which it will be to your advantage to buy and the more we sell to you the more we will buy from you. Can you not impress this fact in the strongest possible manner upon your representative men?"

Mr. Ellis, after expressing profound sympathy for the nation in the great loss sustained, endorsed most heartily the late president's last public utterances on reciprocal relations, and expressed the earnest hope that the policy recommended, would be carried out.

Men are prone to overlook the "acres of diamonds" in their own dooryards, and so the nation is liable to forget that just across the way is a country that contains great possibilities, inhabited by a Christian people, who are not only in sympathy with us, but who are so closely in touch with American life, that they are anxious to become our allies in name, as well as in spirit.
Trade relations with Canada should be the most amicable. Fleets are not required to reach the market, already so well established. An interpreter is not necessary to transact business, and all conditions are favorable. If an exchange of commodities on a more liberal and equitable basis, can be established, the question should receive the careful consideration of the next congress.

The bombardment now going on between Schley and Sampson is as harmless as it is ridiculous. It is a waste of good ammunition, with everything to lose and nothing to gain. The battle of Santiago was won by the American navy, and has already passed into history to the nation's credit. This aftermath is a burlesque that will fall to interest future generations.

The dignity and good name of the nation is being preserved in the trial of the assassin, Czolgosz. Eminent counsel, reluctantly consented to defend the wretch, and if he was insane, the fact will be clearly established. It looks very much as though fanaticism, and not insanity, prompted the deed. Anarchy and fanaticism are closely allied.

The Northwestern Christian Advocate, leading western organ of Methodism, devotes its last issue to the dead president. The church press is more charitable to the great and good man since his death, than it was during his exemplary life. It has discovered that a man may die the death of a Christian martyr, without living the life of a radical and erratic reformer.

Geo. W. Bishop has been relieved from official duty. Acting Governor Murray having accepted his resignation on the 14th inst. The state institutions are relieved of an incubus that has long annoyed them; however, much his colleagues on the board may miss his activities.

Charles T. Yerkes is revolutionizing London street railway methods by a dash of American enterprise. He proposes to establish rapid transit, cheap fares, and frequent service, and his competitors predict speedy failure. They will have a better opinion of Mr. Yerkes when they come to know him.

The Bay View strikers, who violated a contract to gratify a grievance, will consult their own interests by returning to work as individuals, as opportunity presents. The steel strike is settled and employers are not disposed to listen to unreasonable demands, or tolerate a spirit of dictation.

Some one has suggested that a common sepulchre, similar to Westminster, be provided as a final resting place for our presidents and great men. The suggestion is worthy of consideration. The national capital is the home of the chief executive and should be the burial place of the nation's leaders.

Wisconsin has occasion to be proud of her hero, General McArthur, who is spending a few days at his old home in Milwaukee. His public services have been an honor to the state, and as he approaches the age of retirement, he possesses the rare good sense to maintain that honor, by the grace of silence, permitting his untarnished record to speak for him.

PRESS COMMENT.
La Crosse Chronicle: Why would it not be a good time for Sampson and Schley to shake hands and make up?

Racine Journal: To be honest is a question with citizens outside the politicians. If the state fair is worth any $100,000 appropriation,

La Crosse Republican-Leader: In the words of Cardinal Gibbons, "If the death of McKinley means the death knell of anarchy in all the world, we can say with him, Thy will be done." But what a price!

Oshkosh Northwestern: It was a fortunate thing for this country that they refused to take Roosevelt's "No" when he was being urged to accept the nomination for the vice presidency.

Eau Claire Leader: If Admiral Dewey does not take care he will find that steering his reputation through the tortuous windings of the investigation of Sampson is a job even harder than winning the battle of Manila, or leading a house to his wife.

Racine News: If Admiral Howison had been a little wiser or a great deal more foolish than he was he would have dictated his interview on the Schley question into a phonograph. Then the country would have known for certain what he did say.

Rice Lake Leader: Abraham Isaak, the editor and publisher of an anarchical paper in Chicago, says that there are 10,000 anarchists in that city. If his statement is true, the people of Chicago have a duty to perform—and they cannot be at it any too soon.

Racine Journal: While prominent organizations have expelled the Maryland senator, George L. Wellington, from their midst for an unpatriotic utterance, the Atlanta Journal calls upon all southern senators to take their part in expelling him from the senate.

Green Bay Gazette: Admiral Dewey's new orders are to "capture or destroy" all the scandalous rumors concerning the Santiago campaign. It is a harder job than he had at Manila, and should the great admiral be reasonably successful in the undertaking he will prove himself twice a saviour of the navy's honor.

Marquette Eagle: Though young in years, President Roosevelt can well be a model for the young men of the nation, and the older ones will see with satisfaction that the new has learned from the old, and that the union saved in '61 will be maintained with honor and with added prestige through the coming ages.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The faction newspapers are assured that Governor La Follette has the sympathy of all Wisconsin people in his affliction, and that his restoration to robust health is ardently hoped for. The attempt to make an issue out of the governor's illness is not destined to meet with unqualified success.

ANN COLLINS' CASE AGAIN REVERSED; VICTORY FOR CITY OF JANESVILLE

Supreme Court Disagrees Because It Thinks the Verdict is Excessive; Also Because Circuit Court Made an Error in Its Instructions to the Jury.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 24.—(Special.)—The supreme court today reversed the judgment of the Dane County circuit court awarding Ann Collins, a Janesville girl, $2,800 for personal injuries sustained through a fall on a defective sidewalk, the judgment being against the city of Janesville. It is the second time that the case has been to the supreme court. On the previous hearing a judgment of $1,700 was decided to be excessive and the last judgment of $1,100 more is reversed on the same grounds. Another ground of reversal which the court says is in itself sufficient in the error of the circuit court in its instructions to the jury relative to knowledge the defendant had of the defective condition of the walk.

EXAMINATION OF MR. G. L. TRAVER

The municipal court was well-filled with spectators today on account of an examination being held to determine whether or not G. L. Traver of Lima should be held for trial on the charge of adultery. All the parties to the action are members of the United Brethren church at Lima. The proceedings leading to the arrest of Traver were started by Rev. Kane, pastor of the congregation. They claim that they held a meeting of the members of the church and that Traver confessed to them his wrong doings. They agreed not to complain of him if he reformed and behaved himself. They claim that Traver did not live up to his promises and so had him arrested. District Attorney Jackson is conducting the examination on the part of the state and E. W. Chaffin of Waukesha and M. O. Mount appear for the defense.

BARRINGTON OFF FOR CALIFORNIA

RECTOR OF CHRIST CHURCH, AND WIFE, START THURSDAY.

The Rev. Mr. Barrington is a Deputy to the General Convention of the Episcopal Church, which convenes in the City of San Francisco the first of October.

Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Barrington leave on Thursday morning for Chicago enroute for California. Rev. Barrington having been elected a deputy to the general convention of the Episcopal church which will convene in San Francisco the first of October. They will leave Chicago at 10:25 clock Thursday morning over the Burlington route in a special car provided for deputies to the convention. The party will stop over Sunday in Salt Lake City and arrive in San Francisco on the evening of October first.

Rev. and Mrs. Barrington expect to be absent from home about five weeks and as neither of them have ever been to the Pacific coast they expect that the trip will be one of keenest pleasure.

Rev. Barrington is also anticipating great pleasure from attending the general convention as he has never enjoyed the privilege before.

The government of the Protestant Episcopal church is very similar to that of the nation. The parish, with its rector and vestry, corresponds to the municipality, with its mayor and aldermen. The diocese, with its bishop and council, resembles the state, with its governor and legislature.

The legislative body of the national church is called the general convention and with its two houses, the house of bishops and the house of clerical and lay deputies, corresponds to the national congress, the house of bishops, like the senate being the conservative body and the house of deputies, like the house of representatives, the working body.

The general convention meets once in three years and every diocese is entitled to four clerical and four lay deputies, who are elected by the councils of their respective dioceses.

The convention has been called to meet in San Francisco on October 2, and will be preceded by divine service. Some sixty to seventy bishops will probably be in attendance. Rev. Barrington is one of the clerical deputies from this diocese. The three principal matters that will be considered at the convention are the divorce question, the changing of the name of the church and the creation of provinces.

During the absence of Rev. Barrington and his wife, the services of Christ church will be in charge of the Rev. C. E. Roberts, of Madison, and the rector of the church speaks for him a cordial reception by the people of the parish and of the city. Rev. Roberts is a skilled musician and holds a position in the department of music in the University of Wisconsin. Rev. Barrington feels that the church is very fortunate in being able to secure Rev. Roberts to take charge of the services and to drill the chorus choir, recently formed in Christ church.

It is expected that he choir will become very proficient under his instruction. It is also hoped that Rev. Roberts may be induced to give an organ recital while he is in the city as he is one of the few solo organists in the state.

STANDING START AT HARNESS MEET

H. D. M'KINNEY ADVOCATES NEW RULES FOR HORSE RACES.

His idea is to eliminate delays—says Scoring is objectionable to Spectators and Trying to Nervous Horses—Standing Starts in Europe Are a Success.

How to make horse racing more popular and profitable is a question that has been more or less discussed for years. Various plans have been advocated, and few adopted, and all resulting in the same old wearying feature to patrons, and unsatisfactory financially to the managements. Valuable hints toward the solution of the perplexing problem are given by H. D. McKinney, a well-known Janesville Wisconsin horseman, in a letter to The Horse Review. He says:

"Delay in Scoring Objectionable

"To my mind the most objectionable feature of harness racing has ever been and always will be the wearying and at times exasperating, delay consequent upon scoring.

"After several, if not more, years of turf experience in all of its phases, I have become thoroughly convinced that the most essential feature in the line of reform and progress is to abolish the present system of starting horses, and practically adopting the European method of standing start, slightly modified. One very important feature to recommend it is that it is equally fair to all. No playing favorites in scoring by a start lug judge.

"Take the horses up the track and have them brought on a walk to a line two hundred yards from the judges stand and start them. As the horses will be on their stride at the wire, they will go a faster mile than if scored to death.

"Some drivers will say 'I can't get my horse to walk, and various other objections will be made, all of which can readily be disposed of by telling the drivers to keep their horses at home and manner them before bringing them to the post.

"Standing Starts in Europe

"American horses exported to Europe with American drivers' up make standing starts. We certainly can do the same here. In timing, time by the first horse past he stand that is on his gait.

"Every owner of valuable high-class horses should favor the plan, for every experienced horseman knows that nine-tenths of the crippled horses with sprained ankles, filled and bowed tendons, curbs, and all burial enlargements, are caused by rapid turning in scoring, and then rushing to secure a good position at the start; then when recalled the horses, necessarily, are taken too suddenly back. A fair average of distance in each score is fully a quarter of a mile; so it is really remarkable that no more horses are injured mentally as well as physically by prolonged scoring.

"Scoring not only wearies and annoys the attendance, but too often defeats an honest effort to win a race."

POSITIVE PROOF

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Janesville.

Because it's evidence in Janesville. It's from a citizen, perhaps a neighbor. Investigation will confirm it.

Mr. E. Dillenbeck, of 126 Milton Ave. retired farmer, says: "My wife was roused with kidney complaint for four or five years, and complained of pains in the small of the back in the region of the kidneys. The symptoms all indicated that the kidneys were deranged, and the doctors who treated her said that those organs caused the trouble. As she did not get any better we thought Doan's Kidney Pills might give her relief, and procuring them at the Peoples drug store, I had her use the remedy. It did for her all that could be expected. We can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and you can use our names as saying what has been stated above."

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will begin its fall campaign with a Harvest Home gathering on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Mary E. Holmes of Rockford will be present and will speak in the interest of the Freedmen.

Bond Sale.

To the Citizens of Janesville: By an ordinance of the City Council passed July 22, 1901, the Mayor was authorized to sell 130 bonds of $500 each, total $65,000 for the purchase of a site for the library and City Hall, and the erection of the latter.

These bonds are now ready for issue and will be sold as of date October 1. Such bonds are usually sold in the open market to the highest bidder, the entire issue going to one person or firm. Such a sale of necessity bars out the small investors and throws the entire issue into the hands of large dealers or banks, who alone can command the necessary capital. The small investor can then secure the bonds only by paying a commission to the dealer.

Believing that it is for the best interests of the city of Janesville that these bonds should be distributed as much as possible among her citizens, I take this method of offering them to the public. The bonds draw 4 per cent interest. They will be sold to subscribers at a price to net them 3 1/2 per cent interest. Subscriptions can be filed with the City Treasurer up to 12 o'clock noon, September 30, 1901.

In order that investors may fully understand the price they will be required to pay for said bonds I give in the table below the number of bonds, the face value, the interest they bear, the date of maturity and the price at which they will be sold.

Six bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1902; price $502.42 each.

Six bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1903; price $504.07 each.

Six bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1904; price $506.78 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1905; price $508.77 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1906; price $510.63 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1907; price $512.39 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1908; price $514.05 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1909; price $515.62 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1910; price $517.12 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1911; price $518.52 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1912; price $519.86 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1913; price $521.12 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1914; price $522.34 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1915; price $523.49 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1916; price $524.60 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1917; price $525.65 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1918; price $526.66 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1919; price $527.62 each.

Seven bonds, $500.00 each 4 per cent interest, due November 1, 1920; price $528.54 each.

As it is my desire to distribute these bonds as widely as possible among bona fide subscribers, I reserve the right to limit the amount sold to any one subscriber to $5,000. In case all the bonds are not sold as above I further reserve the right to determine which bonds, as to date of maturity, shall be sold as it is desirable that the bonds left after above sale should be as nearly as possible of the same maturity. All bonds not sold as above will be advertised and sold in the usual way.

There can be no question as to the value and security of above bonds as the assessed value of the property in this city is over $9,000,000, and the present bonded indebtedness is but $12,000.

I will be pleased to give any further information possible with regard to above bonds to those contemplating subscribing for same.

NEW PLANS FOR LIBRARY BUILDING

shelves high, would be double and would have table tops on which the public could place the books while examining them.

At the same time no person would be cut of the sight of the librarian. In the original plans if the people were admitted to the shelves, the librarian's back would necessarily be turned to them while waiting on the people at the desk. A large number of these stacks could be used and the book capacity of the library could be greatly increased. Mr. Skavlem has figured on the original plans and holds that they do not give any more room for books than the present library does.

The First Floor

The first floor is to have one entrance on South First street and two entrances on Park street. An entrance near the north side of the building on Park street gives admission to a large auditorium, 40x60, directly under the children's rooms. The Park street entrance leads to a hallway which connects with a hall running north and south through the building, with the exception of the auditorium.

East of this hallway, along the front of the building are two club rooms, one 26x26, and the other 14x32, a director's room, 20x26, and a general utility room for library work. This last named room is directly beneath the librarian's room on the floor above and a stairway connects the two.

On the west of the hall are a club room and art hall, 26x36, a room for public documents, 24x26, which connects with the general library above by a stairway and a janitor's room which would contain the heating apparatus.

To illustrate the desirability of his plans over those of Mr. Jennings, Mr. Skavlem has compiled the following parallel tables giving the floor space in the two buildings which is used for library purposes.

An Imposing Structure

This does not take into account the janitor's room, the public documents room or the library work on the first floor.

Mr. Skavlem also holds that in height his proposed one story building will be as imposing, if built in classic style as the two story building. In the original plans the basement is 10 feet high, the first floor fifteen feet and the second floor thirteen feet; which, allowing one for each of the floors, would make the building, without the ornamental roofing, forty feet high.

In these suggested plans the building will be two feet above Park street, the first floor fourteen feet high, and the second floor seventeen feet eight inches higher than the present library room, which with the one foot for floor would make the building thirty-four feet high. Mr. Skavlem holds that three feet could be easily added and that the building instead of being squat, would be so near the height of the proposed building that there would be no visible difference to the casual observer.

Many of the finest libraries in the country are one story buildings. Mr. Skavlem, feeling that the public is vitally interested, would be pleased to have any one who takes an interest, confer with him and give him their ideas on the subject. Several contractors have told him that the building he proposes can be built within the appropriation.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

They roll them down the middle of the alley straight for the head pin and make a ten-strike every time. That is the way the High Rollers, first part, living pictures, olio and burlesque, do it every time they give a performance. Never heard of them? Well, let us give you a tip. This is their second season. They entered the lists for public approval last season and at once took rank as a top notcher; and at the finish of the season, there was none to dispute their claim of being the leaders. This season they hold the same position. No show outranks them in any particular, and our head is very clear when we say it. We haven't been cooking any pills. Look out for the warm wave. It is coming and you will feel it, the minute you get in the neighborhood of the Myers Grand, but it is the kind that will exhilarate. One of the no chance to fall down, sure to win favorites. One of the sort they bar in the cellar, and play the other starters to win second place. The girls! Well, there are no oyster stew and coffee, or cheese sandwich and beer beauties in this bunch. It is a case of champagne and lobster or they don't stir. They're hummers from hummerstown. That is one of the reasons why you will find the High Rollers the leading burlesque show of the season. Don't fail to see them at the Myers' Grand Saturday evening, September 28.

How About Your Heart

Feel your pulse a few minutes. Is it regular? Are you short of breath, after slight exertion as going up stairs, sweeping, walking, etc? Do you have pain in left breast, side or between shoulder blades, choking sensations, fainting or smothering spells, inability to lie on left side? If you have any of these symptoms you certainly have a weak heart, and should immediately take

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

Mr. F. H. Oaks of Jamestown, N. Y., whose facial features appear above, says: "Excessive use of tobacco seriously affected my heart. I suffered severe pains about the heart, and in the left shoulder and side; while the palpitation would awaken me from my sleep. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and soon found permanent relief."

I, George J. Hurd, hereby apply to your honorable body for the right, privilege and franchise to construct, maintain and operate a street railway in said city of Janesville, Wisconsin, with all necessary switches, sidetracks, turnouts, wires, poles, curves and other fixtures in, upon, along and across certain streets and avenues particularly mentioned in the proposed ordinance hereto annexed, and in a part hereof, and I pray the lawful adoption of an ordinance granting said right, privilege and franchise.

Dated September 21st, A. D. 1901.

GEORGE J. HURD.

An ordinance granting to George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, the right to construct, maintain and operate a street railway in certain streets and avenues in the city of Janesville, Wisconsin, and prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such streets and avenues may be used and occupied by said railway.

The Mayor and Common Council of the City of Janesville do ordain as follows:

Section 1. George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, is hereby granted the full term of fifty (50) years from and after the date of the passage of this ordinance, the right and authority to construct, maintain and operate a street railway in, upon, along and across certain streets and avenues in said city of Janesville, with all necessary switches, sidetracks, turnouts, wires, poles, curves, and other fixtures, in, along and upon the following streets and avenues:

Commencing on Milwaukee avenue at the intersection of Jackson street; thence easterly along and over said Milwaukee avenue and over and across all the intersecting streets and avenues to the city limits; or, at the option of said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, commencing on Main street at the intersection of Belmont avenue, thence southerly along and over said Main street and over and across all the intersecting streets and avenues to the intersection of Eastern avenue; thence easterly along and over said Eastern avenue and over and across all the intersecting streets and avenues to the city limits; and also over and along any or all of the streets and avenues now or hereafter established in said city of Janesville.

Section 2. The mode and manner of constructing of said railway shall be as follows: The track shall be laid with rails of the iron pattern along such location in said streets as the said Geo. J. Hurd, his successors or assigns shall designate and the Common Council shall approve, and shall be laid and maintained at the expense of said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, or of the established grade of said streets or avenues over which it shall pass; and in case at any time the city of Janesville shall change the grade of any street or avenue, said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, shall change the grade of the track to correspond to such new grade at his or their own expense, and without any claim against the city.

Section 3. The mode and manner of constructing of said railway shall be as follows: The track shall be laid with rails of the iron pattern along such location in said streets as the said Geo. J. Hurd, his successors or assigns shall designate and the Common Council shall approve, and shall be laid and maintained at the expense of said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, or of the established grade of said streets or avenues over which it shall pass; and in case at any time the city of Janesville shall change the grade of any street or avenue, said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, shall change the grade of the track to correspond to such new grade at his or their own expense, and without any claim against the city.

Section 4. Whenever the city of Janesville shall pave or otherwise improve any street or streets over which said track or tracks shall pass, the said Geo. J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, shall pay the actual cost of such paving or improving for a space of seven feet for single track and fourteen feet for double track, and the cost and expense for such portion of said paving or improvement shall be assessed to and become a charge against the property of said company, and collected in the same manner as provided by law for the collection of special assessments against real property fronting on any street or streets which have been ordered paved or improved by said Common Council, and such expense may be recovered by action against said company at the option of the Common Council.

Section 5. That in computing said strips of seven and fourteen feet, the space included between the tracks of said railway company shall be included as a part thereof. When such railway crosses or runs on any street or avenue that has been paved or improved said railway shall lay its track and put the paving back to the satisfaction of said Common Council, and in case the street or avenue is as good condition as before the track was laid, the gauge of the track shall be four feet eight and one half inches. Any part of any street or avenue which shall be taken up in the construction of the track shall be promptly relaid with the same or similar material and restored to as good condition as before.

Section 6. Said railway shall be operated with electricity with overhead wires, or other motive power, approved by the common council, except street cars, and said Geo. J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, shall have the right to erect all necessary poles or other mechanical contrivances for the purpose of carrying telephones, telegraph or electric light wires for aid in purposes of said railway or for the purpose of furnishing power service to others inside the city, and for the furnishing power, electric light, telephone or telegraph service to others outside the city limits, subject, however, to all conditions and provisions of an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance to regulate the stringing of wires in the city of Janesville," passed October 10, 1892 and of an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance relating to the installation of metallic return circuits for conveying electricity used as a motive power for railroads and street railways," passed January 7, 1901 and to such other ordinances of said city as are now in force or which may hereafter be in force of a police nature, which said city is authorized and may deem proper to enact.

Section 4. Said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns shall place and maintain thereon approved motor cars with the modern conveniences for the comfort of passengers, shall light the same at night, and in cold weather they shall be suitably heated. Each motor car shall unless the Common Council shall otherwise prescribe, be provided with a headlight which shall be kept burning after sun set and with a gong or bell for danger signals.

Section 5. Said George J. Hurd his successors or assigns will take the rights and privileges herein granted, subject to the right of the city of Janesville to ordinance and establish such reasonable regulations as the Common Council within its police power may from time to time prescribe in respect thereto.

Section 6. The rate of a fare for carrying passengers upon said railway shall not exceed five cents for a single fare from any point upon said route within the city of Janesville in one direction.

Section 7. Said George J. Hurd his successors or assigns shall keep the part of the street used or occupied by them, including the space between the tracks at switches or turnouts, free and clear from dirt, and snow or ice or other debris, and in respect to snow shall level the same so as not to obstruct or interfere with the free use of said streets. In case the city fire hose or other fire apparatus shall at any time be upon the track of said railway, the same shall be stopped or operated so as not to injure the same or interfere in any way with the fire department in endeavoring to extinguish a fire.

Section 8. The cars belonging to said railway shall be entitled to the track and any vehicle or vehicles upon such track shall turn out at the approach of any car so as to leave the track unobstructed.

Section 9. The city of Janesville reserves the right to grant to any other person, company or corporation, operating a street railway, the right to cross the track of said railway by established at grade upon such terms as the Common Council may deem just and equitable, in case the owner, by agreement, by arbitration or otherwise between the parties.

Section 10. The construction of the railway hereby provided for shall be begun within one year and be completed and in operation not later than three years from the date of the passage of this ordinance, otherwise the grant herein created may be declared null and void by the common council unless the completion of said railway is prevented by strike or legal proceeding or matters beyond the control of said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns.

Section 11. Whenever the Common Council of the city of Janesville shall grant to any person the right to lay, build, alter, extend, or operate a street railway in, upon, along or across the streets in which said railway shall be laid, the owner of said building, or the person moving the same, shall be required to move the same across or along the track of said railway company between the hours of twelve o'clock at midnight and five o'clock in the forenoon, and the owner or owners of said railway company, upon receiving reasonable notice of such permit and satisfactory indemnity for the cost and expense which it will incur thereby, shall so elevate or temporarily remove their wires so as to permit the passage of said cars or of other vehicles across or along such streets or avenues.

Section 12. The said Geo. J. Hurd his successors or assigns, shall, within sixty days after the passage of this ordinance, deposit with the city clerk of said city a sum of money, to be known as the bond for the construction of said railway, he or they shall deposit with the City Clerk a bond to be approved by the common council for the sum of five thousand dollars with two (2) sureties, each of whom shall justify in the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000), for the restoration of the streets after the construction in the manner herein provided for, and in case such restoration is not made in the manner herein provided for, said bond shall become forfeited as liquidated damages. And in case George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, shall restore said streets to their former condition within a reasonable time, said bond or deposit shall be delivered up to said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns.

Section 13. Said George J. Hurd his successors or assigns shall at all times hereafter defend, keep harmless and indemnify said city from any and all legal claims or demands for injuries to persons or property, costs and expenses to which said city may be legally subjected, or made liable, by any proceedings at law or in equity or otherwise, growing out of the privileges granted in this ordinance, or out of the exercise and operation of the same by said George J. Hurd, his successors or assigns, and shall upon demand, not of the penalty of any such action defend the same at his or their own cost and expense.

Section 14. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and after its acceptance as provided herein.
